From the Gallatin Examiner.

In the new-papers of the day I have seen many publica lons, suggesting the mode of redress for the ficulties now existing between the States of this ederal Union. The final object of them all appours to be to procure from the North redress of be tess than the South has a right to demand. The time has come when the South should demand, in bold and defiant terms, all that she is catified to under the Constitution of the United States, aboting not one jot or title. The struggle which commenced as early as 1819, when Missouri asked for admission in o the Union, has been kept up to the present time, the North enstitutionality was a concession on the part of the of the unsettled Territory of the United States. All free, whilst those Soula of it were to be free or ransound, than if he had been spared to enjoy all these. slave, as the people might agree. And while the law creating this line was in force, it was repudiated by the North; and in every instance where a State South of that line presented itself for adission into the Union, the Republicans of the North opposed it. During the present session of Congress, the Republicans of the North have shown their opposition to the line of 36° 80', as a division of the Territory belonging to the United States, by heir vote upon the Crittenden Resolutions in the Senate. Notwithstanding, the Republican party charged that the not of Congress, repealing the Missouri Compromise L'ne, was the Pandora's box: whence all the evils existing between the North and South emanated. The Republican party opposed the acquisition of Territory, either by annexation purchase, or war, but when the Territory has been acquired by the action of the South, they are not willing to divide it, but demand the whole for them-The Democracy of the eighteen Narthern States have become Republicanized; and in the late Presidential election, would support no candidate for that office, but Stephen A. Dougias, who ranupon his own platform, which is the same on the Territorial question as that on which Lincoln was elected, only in a medified form.

m Some twenty years later, the system of aiding fugitive slaves and kidnapping them from their owners because quite fashionable at the North, for the redress of which the Fugitive Slave Law of 1850 was passed. This law, so far from settling the difficulty, as its friends said it would do, only made the matter infinitely worse. The Congress of the United States, during its present session, has been trying to a just the difficulties between the North nd the South. The propositions are made by the South while the aggressive party make none themselves and reject such as are made by others ! The North has at present, a controlling majority, which is daily increasing and and must continue to do so; for the main portion of settled territory belonging to the Government lies so far north that slave labor can herer be profitably there employed; consequently this territory will soon be formed into free States, and the Republicans have repeatedly avowed that another ave State shall never be admitted into the Union The platform on which, L nooln was elected says that slavery in these United States shall be proscribed. Thus the Narth, to gratify their own faucy, demand of the South the sarrifice of four thou and milifons worth of proper y in slaves. Is the South willing to make this exertifies to enjoy rights constitutionally her own! In this dilemma, the South must act, and either drive the North from the Union subdue them to reason, or leave the Union herself. And although the former would by many be preferred, yet five of the Southern States have adopted the latter; and as harmony ought to exist in the South, the remaining slave States will probably think it best to follow their example. To talk of further compromise with this agg essive party, flished wish success in the election of ta ir Press den, is simply abourd. The days of Southern equality in this Union, have passed away, and it is a title dream longer shops for such a hing. If the North, when a miredry, refused the Sanch equality, need we expect it wenth-yere a majoricy, and in possession of the Federal Government?

Senstar Seward, after all he sas d ne to build up the Republi an party, declaring an "irrepressibie conflict" between free and slave labor, on former consions, now h bis tost free and slave lab r might exist together under certain coronastances. se forth in his late speech in the Senate. The the ject of that gendemna in former times, we sto get control of the Federal Government; his party, having now accomplished that object, is desirous at holding the Una n together, in order that he said his party may profe me e suply by we lit ng the scepire over the Uni n u divid d. then by a lim nistering the Government over his own Northern see lon The Sensior in the same speech also says, that South Car line has left the Unite because say fuled to elec her President, and hean images that the South will never elect another President ; thereby indicating that the Northern Republican face, a, regardless of all restraints or compromises, intends to hold for the future, the control of the Federal Government. Senator S word, who, it is said, will be secretary of State to Abraham Loucolo, after having contributed so largely, by his course in and out of Cangress, towards driving the neceding States out of the Union, u w declares in substance that he will bring them back, peaceably if he can, forcibly if he must. Ve Southerners, looking at all the circumstatoes which surround you, what policy is best to be pursued for the purpose of promoting your future prosperity and happiness? Ye people of Tennessee, when all the States south of you shall have left the Union, is it it your best policy to attack yourselves to this overwhelming Black Republican party of the you in the face and be the "bewers of wood and drawers of water" for that faction, or to unite yourselves with the South, whose institutions, habits and sympa bies are like your own? This is a question Ewing & Pendieton, and by all responsible drugglists every which you have now to determine one way or the where. sympa bies are like your own? This is a question Our system of Government, as framed by our fathers, State and Federal, is the best ever devised by man; and no patriot can contemplate its overthrow without the despest regret. Although it may prove a failure as applicable to the Stales of this Union, formerly combined in one system, yet the principles remain and may be exercised in a Southern Confederacy, where more harmony may be neticipated than has prevailed in the Union now about to be severed.

How vain and transitory are all human institu tions! The Federal Government formed by our Revolutionary ancestors, the result of their toils, privations and dangers in the Auterican Revolution, in which they severed the chains of British tyrany and became free and independent States, we, ef a later age, have been taught to believe would exist through all time. This belief remained unshaken with many until within the last six months, and the thirteen stars which bedecked the original flag had increased to thirty-three, with the prospect of being extended to double that number. Yet, all of a sudden, in the midst of prosperity and happ ness, this Union, like a rope of sand, is tumbling to piecer; and the future historian, when he looks for he reason, will be surprised at the weakness and folly of the people who have committed this error. The cause which led to this estastrophe, had its origin many years ago, in New York and Boston, by the establishment of Abelition newspapers in those cities, by Paricanical faca ics, who, at first, met with but little favor from the people of those States. with but little favor from the people of those States.
